Universal Scale is the perfect tool for measuring distances, heights and widths. It is also convenient for estimating the actual measurements of objects or structures. This program makes it possible to accurately measure both lengths and diameters of many types of objects and structures, including models and architectural designs. Easy to use programs such as this always find a spot in the tool box. Accurate measurements are now possible in the environment where no ruler is available. Polariscope-2 measuring tool: The patented measuring tool is sensitive to movement and provides the precise results. It is capable of estimating the sizes of very small objects, such as fonts, embossed lines and other special characters. This way of measuring can be used when no ruler or other tools are available. - Data displays the measured values - User can replace the standard weight by his/her own - It can measure the dimension of any object; - It provides a real-time update of your measurements - It can quickly measure small objects; - The interior magnets are small and easy to carry around; - It can be used inside a safety-screen or another magnets. User can easily add/delete weight in the opened weight window. The material is precious to human beings as a resource. However, for many people around the world, there is a lack of access to the earth's renewable energy sources. Since developing countries are the ones that need this resource the most, Light Usage is a successful approach to reducing the impact of the energy crisis. First introduced as a project by the Japan Atomic Energy Agency to develop a system to power a remote area in Africa with solar energy, Light Usage has been active in many countries around the world, and has demonstrated its ability to be the next generation power system that will help countries around the world. Usage is a simple solar power generation system that allows the user to build, control and monitor their own infrastructure using a simple, low-cost LED Power Board. Using a simple, low-cost LED Power Board, Users can build their own solar power infrastructure. Users can now monitor their power generation and customize it with controllable loads and produce power storage batteries. Using a remote control device, Users can perform rapid, accurate diagnostics and monitor their power generation. Simple and accurate, There are two types of the usage system, the Light Usage Manage Unit, and Light Usage Vehicle. The Light Usage Manage Unit and the Light Usage Vehicle can work together with the Light Usage Fuel Cell to perform various electricity generating and energy management tasks. The Light Usage Vehicle is a light weight solar car that has been developed to be used as a mobile power plant. The Light Usage Vehicle consists of a Light Usage Vehicle Block. Light Usage Vehicle Block contains Both the Solar Panel and Battery. Using a self-contained DC battery and solar panel, the Light Usage Vehicle can generate large amounts of clean energy without the need of a grid. The Light Usage Vehicle Block can generate a maximum power output of 100 W The solar panel has an array of 96 4-W solar cells and a power input rating of 25 W. The Battery can store the generated power and operate
