According to ABC News' Jonathan Karl, the president and the first lady will not be in attendance. The president will be holding a press conference with Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, which he's planning to use as an opportunity to raise the "Gaza conflict" -- as the U.N. chief Ban Ki-moon called it on Monday. The White House says the president will be making a major statement on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial, saying it will be a "powerful and moral statement about our differences, but also about what binds us together as Americans." ABC News' "Nightline" will be broadcasting live from the event. Watch "Nightline" starting at 11:35 p.m. ET. The President's Remarks Following the speech, the president will hold a formal press conference. ABC News' John Parkinson will be live-blogging the event here. Q: Executing a DataSet created dynamically I have created a DataSet dynamically and it works fine if I try to run it but if I try to run the saved DataSet through the Load function on a button click, it throws an error. The problem is that the function seems to execute the set up before it runs the load function. So when it tries to execute it, the SQL query is not setup. This is my code for the button that I am trying to run the data set: private void button1_Click(object sender, EventArgs e) { // Here I create the data set DataSet ds = new DataSet(); ds.DataSetName = "DataSetName"; ds.ReadXml("DataSourceName.xml"); ds.CreateDataTable("TableName", ""); ds.WriteXml("DataSetName.xml"); } I would like to run the data set that is set up before the click function runs. A: The problem is that you need to set the Build action to EmbeddedResource in the properties window. If you want to use the Load function then the other approach would be to create a wrapper function that contains the entire logic in a TransactionScope. So in the button click handler using(var ts = new TransactionScope()) { // Load data
